Carmanah has been putting solar to work since 1996. The first company of its kind in the world, Carmanah engineered the self-contained solar LED marine light and continues to develop best-in-class short-range solar LED lighting. Early on Carmanah saw the natural synergy between solar power and LED technology. Incorporating the two technologies along with a patented energy management system, Carmanah created the world's first self-contained solar power LED marine lantern. Continuous research, development and innovation has made

Carmanah the world leader in short-range, self-contained solar powered marine lanterns – the supplier of choice for maritime authorities and commercial clients around the globe.

Sabik has been showing the way to mariners since 1991. Sabik's engineering expertise, sharp focus on optics, microprocessor technology, remote monitoring and control has made them a world leader in marine signaling systems. Dedicated to improving reliability in harsh marine environments, Sabik engineers developed unique and innovative solutions that set their products apart from all others. In extreme ice conditions Sabik is the gold standard in providing AtoN solutions; in more temperate climates their products excel. Today, Sabik is the premier supplier of high performance lanterns and monitoring systems to governmental agencies worldwide.

Together, the Carmanah/Sabik team delivers a complete range of AtoN solutions unmatched and unprecedented in the marine industry.
